The Forum for Emerging Environmental Leaders is a one-day conference bringing together 100 of the most promising environmental leaders of Canada with senior business and government leaders to focus on:

1. Green jobs and economic growth based on environmental investment and energy innovation.
2. The community of young leaders involved in environment as a career path.
3. Relationships between future decision makers and current business and political leaders, which could include mentor relationships and job opportunities.
4. A series of concrete actions for the young leaders to implement after the Forum.
